Auditors Report

Washington, Feb. 26, 1924.

I have audited the accounts of the School Board and Treasurer, and find they are properly cast, but not well vouched. A large number of vouchers are lacking in the case of the School Board, and the Treasurer has paid several orders signed by but one member of the School Board, and in one instance an unsigned order was paid.

WARREN F. ADAMS,
Auditor.

Washington, Feb. 26, 1924.

I have audited the accounts of the Selectmen, Treasurer and Trust Fund Committee, and find them properly cast.

The Treasurer's and Trust Fund Committee's accounts are properly vouched, but four vouchers are missing in the Selectmen's accounts.

Superintendent's Report

To the School Board of Washington:

The report of the Superintendent of schools for the year 1922-1923, is herewith respectfully submitted.

There was no change in the location or number of the schools this year. Much to our regret Miss Vina Dole decided to resign and accept a position under the same Superintendent in Hillsboro. Mr. Philip Marcey was an excellent teacher at the Center last year, but he was not certified by the State Department of Education because he had not attended Normal School and did not care to agree to attend it in the future. Without such certification a person cannot teach, so we were obliged to look elsewhere for a teacher. Miss Eliza Getchell felt unable to teach the Dole School another year, and we were left with the task of finding teachers for all our schools.

Miss Tuttle preferred to return to the Dole School after being away for two years, and was elected teacher of that school. No one was found to teach the other schools until almost time for schools to open in the fall. Some candidates did not care to locate so far from the Railroad, and others would not accept the salary we have been in the habit of paying, although it is very likely that if a satisfactory teacher could have been found who would have come to us at a higher salary, a higher salary might have been obtained.

Four young people came to the Superintendent from the Keene Normal School after having attended one summer session. Two of them preferred to go to Deering, and the other two to Washington. It happened that the two teachers who went to Deering were among the very best teachers, while the two who came to Washington did not suit our needs as well. Mr. Walter J. Gale, who came to the Center School, resigned at Christmas time, and was succeeded by Miss Elmar Shedd. Miss Lorange Trembley, who taught at East Washington, was not a candidate for re-election.

There were 46 pupils in our schools this year, less than in the previous years. This was largely due to the removal of practically all the lumber mill families, from the town. Of these 46, the girls numbered 21, and the boys 25.

The Dole School had the best attendance and the only child who was neither absent or late for the whole year. It should be noted to her credit that she was thus regular in attendance in spite of a most severe winter, and of her youthfulness, as she was only seven years old. It is certain that the teacher has great influence over the attendance of her pupils. If she feels that regularity in attendance is an important matter, they also feel the same, and vice versa; though, of course, that is not the only factor, and no teacher could be blamed for non-attendance due to illness or to the fault of the parent. The attendance was very good considering the severity of the winter. Last year, under Miss Dole the attendance was the best in the town, 93.5 per cent, while this year under another teacher it was the lowest in the town, 88 per cent. Last year the Dole School attendance, 88.5 per cent, was the lowest in the town; while this year, under Miss Tuttle, it was the highest in the town, 93 per cent.

There were 174 days of school at the Center, 172 at the Dole School, and 171 at East Washington, an average of about 7 days lost during the entire year, for holidays, institutes, illness and bad weather. A very good record.

There were only 27 cases of tardiness for the 46 children. Two were at the Center, and 7 at the Dole School, which were excellent records. If the record for the East School had been as good we would have had a wonderful attendance record, but there were 18 cases of tardiness in that school, just twice as many as in both the other schools.

The Superintendent paid 40 visits of supervision and inspection and attended 12 Board meetings, the school Board made 12 visits, and there were recorded 104 visits by parents and friends. Both the superintendent and the Committee made more visits than they did in the previous year, but the record of parent's and friends' visits for the past three years has been: 1920-21, 173 visits; 1921-22, 196 visits; 1922-23 only 104 visits.

Parents and friends have a standing invitation to visit the schools at any time, without special invitation. Such visits encourage the pupils and the teacher.

ROLL OF HONOR

Alice Crane.

Supt. of Schools.
